About OPEN

In 2013, OPEN was founded by five organisations from different countries that shared values and a unique approach to organising: making engagement simple and accessible for every citizen. Through organising conferences, offering training and technical advice, OPEN became a multiplying force for other activists and groups around the world looking to create change at home. OPEN members are characterised by being progressive, digital, nimble, full-spectrum and member-led. Today, OPEN has grown to 19 groups in as many countries with 17 million supporters worldwide and a growing track record full of people-powered victories. The network currently counts 10 full members and 9 start-ups in various stages of launch.

Members join the network with the aim of achieving the following results:

- Increased tactical range
- Regular utilization of common resources
- Accelerated strategic innovation and implementation of new programs
- Cheaper & faster access to better technology
- Rapid adoption and improvement of best practices
- Heightened morale and inspiration
- Enhanced staff recruitment and retention
- Unique skills training and leadership development opportunities for network staff
- Deepened awareness of priority global issues
- Combined forces to win common campaigns.

Purpose of the Role

OPEN is poised to begin its third phase of organisational growth. The Executive Director will come into an organisation that is seeking to:

- Expand its cohort of Full Member organisations that both exert a significant grassroots force in their country's politics, and have achieved sustainability through diversity of funding and leadership.
- Target proactive growth efforts towards leaders and countries with a high potential for organisational success, while consciously expanding our capacity to add value in places with less wealth and freedom than where OPEN started.
- Provide significant and increasing value for founding organisations and full members, measured in terms of their own goals.
- Create tech that makes life easy and affordable for startups, and a suite of world-class open source tools we develop in collaboration across the network that significantly enhance the work of mature organisations.
- Regularly foster collaboration between members with shared targets or similar strategies and goals so that they can easily collaborate on campaigns for greater impact.

Duties and Responsibilities

The Executive Director will manage a senior team and oversee 10 staff currently located in six countries with four legal entities. The ED will report to the advisory board made up of OPEN members.
